

Jackeline Fuchs

Hello, I'm Jackeline Carolina Fuchs Torres, I'm 16, I come from the Ventanilla district, in the constitutional province of Callao. For me, the dissolution of the Congress was too suppressing, since I expected the authorities would be working more together. The decision of our president is respected and, to be sincere, it mobilized many opinions around it. What I hope from the next January 2020 elections is that they are part of a really transparent process, that our next elected representatives are really committed to work and to change our country.

Within the context of education in Peru, for example, within the context of my community a consultation was made in which many students came to communicate their dissatisfaction and they are right, education still doesn't appear to be considered so important, since there are many difficulties yet to address, be them in regard to the curriculum, based in memory and knowledge, or in regards to teaching and appreciating skills and capacities.

We should focus on an education that makes sure students are happy, not frustrated for not performing well enough. With their rights violations, there is still violence which affects our country and it is growing each day, and this is not only a problem of the community, but also a problem regarding the lack of values at home. We must make sure that girls, boys and adolescents can grow in an emotional warmish environment.
